Dr Don's Double Dose

Dr. Don's Double Dose are Don Hopkins, piano and vocals with Rob Grosser, drums & percussion. Their music draws from the rich vein of blues and jazz of the 1920s & 30s through to the R&B, soul & gospel sounds of the 1950s & 60s with an emphasis on the New Orleans, piano styles & songs. Classics and rarities from the blues catalogue are intermingled with Dr. Don originals. The duo's music creates the good-time, barrelhouse and boogie-woogie fun of a blues party night. As well as playing the drums, Rob beats out catchy rhythms on his washboard where needed.

The Jazz Factory

The Jazz Factory draws its inspiration from an earlier era of love songs, rip roaring jazz and great fun times. If you like Louis Armstrong, Irving Berlin and Duke Ellington, you will love this band! Two of the band members sing so you won't go short of some great vocals. One of the great delights of this band is the clean sound and harmonic balance achieved by the musician's compatibility, no doubt partially as a result of the many gigs played together.

Di Bird Quartet

Di has cemented her position within the Australian jazz community, appearing at major jazz festivals across the country including Manly and Noosa, as well as international gigs in New Zealand (Queenstown). Touring is her raison d'être, and Di enjoys her role in bringing jazz back to rural and remote areas. Over the years she has been fortunate enough to partner with some of the finest musicians this country has produced, including Ed Gaston, James Sherlock and James Greening.

Di's newest musical collaboration, The Di Bird Quartet, is the perfect fusion of her twin musical loves of lyric & swing. The Di Bird Quartet will feature Steve Brien, Steve Arie, Peter Locke & Di Bird.

Pearlnoire (Black Pearl) is a vocalist whose voice has been likened to velvet tones and Dark Chocolate on a lovers tongue. Blues Bessie mama and Black magic diva are a few terms also used recently in live reviews and also reviews about her debut CD 'Ain't All Blues'.

Pearlnoire has always been an entertainer bringing her unique style to various roles including Runway Model, Actress, Compere, Mistress of Ceremonies and many appearances on Television & Radio in the United Kingdom, West Indies and now Australia. Pearlnoires current repertoire runs from jazz, swing, soul, soft rock, socca, funk, reggae, country and she loves new challenges bringing her own marque and influence to a song and loves to sing whatever her audience or client requests.

The Andrew London Trio

The Andrew London Trio play an eclectic range of original songs and covers in a variety of styles ranging from 1930s swing to cool '60s 'latin lounge'. Songwriter/satirist Andrew London, well-known for his involvement in popular trio Hot Club Sandwich and Kapiti country rockers The Cattlestops, explores middle-class obsessions and taboos in songs about rugby fans, television evangelists, weddings, male insecurities, technophobia, youth culture, household appliances, pretentious socialites, coffee, parenthood, & various other issues of concern to the average Kiwi.

Woodwind exponent and songwriter Nils Olsen contributes with jazz-influenced saxophone, clarinet and flute, and more introspective original songs that provide a contrast to London's characteristic levity. The trio is completed by bassist Kirsten London, also active with Kapiti-based quartet Henpicked, who have released several albums of original material, and featured at music festivals throughout NZ.

Mike Garner & Derek Jacombs - The Bay City Ramblers

Mike Garner and Derek Jacombs are two of New Zealand's most widely respected blues musicians and songwriters. As well as fronting their own bands - the Mike Garner Band and Kokomo respectively - they also lead The Bay City Ramblers, a 4-piece dedicated to traveling the backroads of old blues, folk and country, exploring the sounds now called Americana. Expect resonator guitars, banjo, mandolin, fiddle, washboard and more, on a musical trip that stretches from late 1800's America through the music of Bessie Smith and Woody Guthrie to the contemporary Kiwi blues of their own songs.
